A sure cure for the Scab in Sheep.

The undersigned has the pleasure of announcing to the Wool Growers of this country, that he has now received a large quantity of the celebrated South Down Sheep Wash.

This valuable preparation is highly recommended for its safety, convenience, utility and economy. The only labor required with this article now offered to the public, is to stir the paste into the quantity of water needed for the Sheep that are intended to be dipped. This Sheep Wash is highly recommended and extensively used by the wool Growers of Australia and South Africa. The Sanitas that have been used some of the Estancieros of this Country, have given the most perfect satisfaction, and are recommended by them as the most effectual remedy ever used in this country; for further particulars apply either personally or by letter to

in every respect, is unsurpassed in the Globe. All of which will be offered for sale at the most reasonable prices. He would moreover invite the attention of the public to the many advantages of the adjustable illuminator over all other light giving agents. Kerosene Oil being a liquid extract from bituminous coal, contains all the illuminating properties of coal gas, and produces a clear, white light, surpassing Gas light itself in brilliancy and in all such remarkable softness and purity as to render it infinitely the best light in the world for the eyes. Its cost is not more than one half as much as gas and in much more economical than the most delicate light in use. Kerosene Oil is very cleanly, odourless, and perfectly safe and the lamps are so simple that they can not be got out of order. The unequal and superiority of Kerosene Oil over all other artificial illuminators, having been fully established throughout Europe and North America [where it has met an adoption unparalleled in the history of improvements], it is now confidently offered to the public as the most perfect and by every regard most desirable illuminator yet introduced. All are invited to call and see the light and judge for themselves, the evening being the best time, for see the establishment.

WEDNESDAY 16th JULY 1862.

Session of Congress.

The Chamber of Senators met yesterday, 20 members being present. The Cordoba railway bill was continued from Art 10, in which it was provided that at least 25 miles should be constructed within 2 years from beginning operations. The clauses up to 18 were sanctioned without modification.

11. The term of guarantee shall be for 40 years, but the lands ceded shall be in perpetuity.

12. Government shall have power to interfere in the regulation of the tariff, during the term of guarantee.

14. The Company shall be bound to prolong the line to any other convenient place, on condition that Government guarantees 7 p$ on the outlay, and Government shall have the right of purchasing the line, on paying, over and ab ve the outlay a sum of 20. p$ for compensation.

15. The Company may be anonymous, being submitted to the Government and having a legal residence in the Republic.

16. The Government shall have power of intervention in the fulfilment of these stipulations.

17. Whatever question may arise shall be settled by arbitration.

18. The Government, in granting the concession, shall demand a pecuniary pledge for the execution of this work.

The secretary then read the following bill:—

Art 1—The extent of 40 yards on each side of the railroad shall be appropriated for a public highway from Rosario to Cordoba, besides the necessary track (four yards) for the line.

Dr Rawson proposed to put one hundred yards on one side as more convenient.

Dr Elizalde showed it was better to place a road on each side, in order to save the trouble of crossing the line, for the passage of cattle, which involves great danger.

Art. 2—The National Executive shall ask a cession of half a league on each side of the above highway, for public purposes, to be hereafter determined by the provincial legislatures of Santa Fe and Cordova shall be invited to carry out this cession in the whole line, excepting one league from the points of terminus.

Dr Alsina objected that the individual proprietors would not resign their lands for pure patriotism, especially when their lands would acquire increased value from the vicinity of the railroad. He hundred yards as an amendment the grant of a certain given extent of land, without leaving to the Executive the arbitrary expropriation of whatever territory they may think fit. The present grant should stand as a general rule for all future lines, but on a limited plan.

Dr. Elizalde—insisted that the present case was alone in discussion. The Congress assumed, as indisputable right, the confiscation of 104 yards in the whole line but only begged the patriotic grant of 1|2 a league. In the first case we ask permission of no one; in the second we call on the Provincial Legislatures to give up their public lands near the line, and interest themselves with the estancieros to renounce their claims.

Dr. Sarsfield.—vindicated the further authority of Congress to take any quantity of land requisite for National highways. He held that the grant of 104 yards might be sufficient for the railway purpose, but the provincial traffic required moreover public roads at least 50 or 80 yards wide. From Rosario to the Carcarañas there is some beaten track or postroad, but, he could assure them from personal observation, that nothing of the kind existed from that stream to the town of Villa Nueva. In this province the Government had marked out 70 or 80 yards for the post-road to Villa Luxan; and hence it followed a straight and commodious line. The same was necessary in Sta. Fé and Cordoba, for the facilities of travelling, not to oblige people to follow such or such a route, but to provide transit for caravans or troops of cattle.

The bill was passed by general affirmation on both readings, and therefore will next come before the Chamber of Deputies.

Gen. Rojo was sworn in as Sector for Salta.

The San Martin statue.

GENERAL MITRE'S SPEECH.

Gentlemen.

We are about to uncover the noble effigy of General S. Martin in the heroic attitude where n Art has immortalized him, when scaling the loftiest chain of mountains on the Globe, and mounted on his war-horse, he pointed out to his legionaries the path of glory, and looked down with the prophetic eye of genius, from those beetling heights, on the pampas, seas and valleys of South America, the scene of his past exploits and future renown.

This effigy will, at length, be presented to the gratitude and admiration of that posterity to whose decision he confidently appealed in the most resentful speech of his life, when bidding farewell to the American shores.

That sentence has been passed by four generations. Three republics have acclaimed him the father and founder of their liberties and independence. The political geography has defined eight nations within the orbit traced out by his victorious sword. The whole world has confessed him the first military genius of the continent. America ranks him with Bolivar, the Liberator of half the earth, with whom he shared the glory of becoming the armed apostle of American freedom, whose banners floated in triumph from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Valdivia to the Equator. History has emblazoned his immortal triumphs of San Lorenzo, Chacabuco and Maypú, his intrepid passage of the Andes, and his memorable expedition to Peru.

Posterity recognises in him the skilful commander and able statesman who, free from grovelling ambition, exerted his power for the one grand object to which he consecrated his sword, his heart, his existence. Here we have a picture of the hero who, by his own merit, raised himself to the pinnacle of honor, and subsequently resigned his pre-eminence with voluntary humility, when his great mission was accomplished. Such conduct is without precedent in South A rica, and only finds an equal in Washington.

When he left Peru, taking with him the standard of its liberation, calumny and insult followed him, although some noble voices were raised in his defence. Returning, solitary, by that same road to which he had recently p raised the head of his victorious legions, he found only a passing hospitality in Chile, the nation which he had emancipated. And in his native country, this hero of three republics was divested of the simple right of citizenship, because his paternal roof was levelled with the dust.

San Martin condemned himself to exile, with a magnanimity unparalleled in history: after five years he returned once more to breathe his native air, but was met with a charge of cowardice. Without setting foot on the native shores, he turned back to spend his declining age far from us, and await the decision of an impartial posterity. On his death-bed he did not say, "Ungrateful country, you shall not possess my bones!" but wrote in his last will, "I wish my heart to repose in Buenos Ayres."

After a long period of ingratitude, the glory of San Martin rises like a planet in the American firmament. Peru has been the first to decree a statue to his memory. Chile generously ranked him as general of her armies, with a suitable pension. And now the Municipality of Buenos Ayres raises an equestrian statue in bronze, the horse being composed of his cannon trophies, to perpetuate his name and victories, while the remembrance of his exploits will fill every patriot breast.

Nor can his services be compensated by a fragile fabric of stone and metal, which time will overthrow; the grateful memory of a nation is a better reward, for it never fades away. It is a happy augury for the Argentine Republic, that this symbol of her most illustrious son is inaugurated at a moment when our national destinies are finally consolidated.

If this bronze could now be vivified, San Martin would assuredly rejoice to see around him all the members of the Argentine family, assembled in peace and liberty, and realizing after half-a-century of discord, the great object of his labors.

In the mean time let us not forget General Belgrano who shares with him the pages of our history and affection of our hearts: for these are the two great men of thought and deed whom our revolution produced.

Let us now salute, in the statue about to be uncovered, the noble image of the Father of three Republics the victor of San Lorenzo, Chacabuco and Maipú, the first Captain of the New World, the illustrious Argentine warrior, General Jose San Martin.

The Peruvian Minister said—The signal of alarm, which has lately s read from one end to the other of this contin nt, seems to have awakened San Martin from his eternal rest. he lord forth fresh legions to new encount rs and further glory.

There he stands, as if inspired by the genius of war to rush forward, no longer in the cause of emancipation, but in defence of the nations he has founded, and of their immortal liberties.

In contemplating this monument, which a people's gratitude h s consecrated to the hero of our age, and the guard of honour composed of the litt band of heroes, who, led on by his voice, boldly faced death, and bedewed with blood the laurels which they won, I yield to the feelings of admiration inspired by these historic associations, and bow down before these relics of Independence beneath the shadow of the statue.

Parent and founder of three republics! Conqueror of Maipú and Calmo! the representative of Perú salutes the Spirit of the first Captain General of my country! Indians are more with thy sacred genius the breast of free America, that she may wrouse her enthusiasm and become strong, united and invincible.

Editor's Table

The present steam communication between this city and Montevideo is so arranged by the agents, that they bid fair to beat the French and British consuls out in their anxiety to serve the public. On Monday, the Menay left for Montevideo, contrary to the expressed wish of every foreign merchant in town: there was not even a pretext for her leaving. Mr. Stephen D. Risso deserves to be well supported, he is so obliging. We have now no extra mail for the Saintonge. Had there been no vessel but the Saintonge going down to Montevideo, we could understand Mr Risso's anxiety to despatch the Menay, but not only had we the Saintonge, but also the Villa del Salto, a steamer so infinitely better than the Menay, both in accommodations and speed, that any one who has ever sailed in the Menay can appreciate the superiority of the other vessels.

Messrs Bernal and Carrega have the Libertad lying in port, painting her up. Surely they might have as easily despatched her yesterday evening as to-day! And supposing for a moment that she was not altogether finished, so much the better for them; the public would then know whom to trust to on an emergency.

Great complaints exist against the Gas Co., for shutting off the gas before cock-crow, which causes great inconvenience. We are at a loss to discover a motive for this step on the part of the Co., it diminishes their receipts also, and we doubt if the Co. is so flush as to disregard this item.

The Comisario in the Police is doing a thriving business; if there was a run on the old bank there couldn't be a greater crowd than yesterday at the Policia. Ignorant passers-by wondered at the stir and rumors were rife that the Captain in the Port were holding an interview, with his highness the Chief.

On a little enquiry, however, it turned out that it was the day when half the town were brought to our judgment, for keeping protruding sign boards. The fifty-dollar bills came flowing into the Policia like unto an artesian paper dollar spring; however, the worthy judge at last met with a check from the shape of a well known city Dentist, who, standing upon his rights, refused to be fined, or take down his sign, until the Chief of Police set the example, and took down his vigilant eyes from public view. The judge ranted and paced up and down, cut to the core by the severity of the reply; then sent the worthy dentist about his business. The poor Italians, however, who wanted the pluck of our friend in calle Piedad, were mulcted without pity. The Chief and his Commissary had better be on the look out next time they have a tooth ache, lest they purchance call on our esteemed friend, who, we doubt not, will settle matters in a most friendly manner, in the way of tooth extraction.

We have received the map of the new town of "Mitre", and can only say that if it is as good as it looks on paper, it will be one of our most charming suburbs about town.

Sending the Fool Farther.

It is a generally understood thing that private property, whether belonging to native or foreigner, in this country is sacred, and cannot be invaded, no matter under what pretence, except through the medium of our civil courts, after a patient hearing of all parties interested.

The municipality of this city has been more than once brought before the public, in the columns of the "Standard," not to say in the most favourable light; but our previous observations were more of a general than specific character.

A communication, however, has now been sent to us, which comes from a responsible party, a property-holder in this city—a foreigner who, having made money in the country of his adoption, deems the best return he can make that country is to invest his little capital here, for the advancement of the country, rather than employ it in foreign banks or railway shares.

The Municipality or Chief of Police in former days, one Sr. Treiles, without any notice whatever to the owner, set too and cut away about 350 square yards of the communal property, in calle Buenos Ordenes, on the top of the Hill, close to Sr. Cambaceres quinta, destroying a respindsy hedge of 12 years growth, and actually widening the street more than the law allowed, the clay thus cut away, was carted down the hill, and distributed so as to create a greater slope. The intention was praiseworthy enough but the end can never justify the means, and the willful trespass committed upon Mr. L.'s property, has brought its own retribution. The street is at present impassable, and last week, during the wet weather, the scene of mud and pantano at the bottom of the hill, baffles all description.

It will be said why did not the owner apply to the proper authorities, for redress? why did he not avail himself of the law of the land? why did he not assert his rights as the owner of the injured property? Those who put such questions know as much about Buenos Ayres lawsuits as the Chief of Policia does about the Great Mogul.

In the first place, the Municipality enjoy the privilege of minors in all lawsuits, and cannot be sued except at a great disadvantage; in the next place, supposing that the Municipality were liable as a body for their acts, in the same manner as individuals, the "onus probandi" as to the title of the property in question, lies on the plaintiffs, which is contrary to every principle of law or justice: yet since the days of Ferdinand and Isabel it has been universally the practise in all Spanish countries.

The consequence is, that the party aggrieved, rather than commence a lawsuit against a body fledged round with such immunities, seeks by every possible means to obtain restitution, and failing to get it by fair means loses it altogether.

Mr. L. has applied from post to pillar, until patience has fairly ceased to be a virtue.

He first applied to the Chief of Police, who peremptorily referred him to the Municipality. This body referred to hear his complaint until sent him to the Topographical department. After waiting months and months, he was desired to apply to the Commission of Barracas. The Commission, in their turn, sent him to the Minister of Hacienda; here he met with business men and was at once despatched to the fiscal, this gentleman hit the nail on the head by giving him the following reply: "Querrase a quien corresponde".

The exact domicile of this Mr

The Prince of Wales and Gen. Mitre

The official publication of yesterday gives a letter from H.R.H. Albert Edward, to President Mitre, with the reply of the latter. Although mere formalities, referring to an event long past, we produce them for the rarity they possess, and the relationship so formed between our Royal family and the Argentine authorities.

To the President of the Argentine Confederation.

My good friend—

The Queen, my beloved mother, has suffered a grievous loss in the death of my dear and venerated father Prince Albert, which took place at Windsor Castle on the 14 December last. You can well imagine the grief of Her Majesty at this unexpected blow which befal the Royal family and all the nation. Under such sad circumstances I am directed to write, on the part of my afflicted mother, informing you of the melancholy occurrence. The Queen trusts that you will kindly receive this announcement as coming from herself, and that she may count upon your friendly sympathy in the hour of trial, which Divine Providence has pleased to inflict upon her. I recommend you to God's holy keeping.

Your sincere friend.

Albert Edward.

REPLY OF GENERAL MITRE.

To H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, greeting!

My good friend.

I have received your letter informing me of the irreparable loss which your august mother, the Queen, has sustained in the death of the Prince Consort. Cherishing, in common with all my countrymen, the most cordial sympathy for her Majesty's welfare and that of her family as well as of the great nation which she rules, my heart is most deeply affected at this lamentable catastrophe which in rendering doubly poignant by the remembrance of the many high qualities which adorned the deceased Prince.

I beg most earnestly that you will deign to participate to her Majesty my compassion for the just affliction which oppresses her; assuring her, at the same time, that I will fervently pray the Almighty to fortify her soul and yours with the necessary resignation to bear up sgn nst so severe a trial.

May the Supreme Ruler ever guard and preserve you.

Your good friend.

The Advantages of Life Assurance

[Communicated.]

Men do not need information so much as impression. They may be acquainted with facts of significant import, or great practical value; but they half shut their eyes and see them dimly, and half close their ears and hear them feebly. They may know, but they do not de—heir information does not result in positive action. Thus, if a principle is even to make extensive progress, it must be by intense exertion on the part of its [illegible], whose voices must never sink, whose energies must never fail, whose determination must never falter, if they are to make a deep and lasting impression upon society in reference to the particular cause which they may advocate. For, though for the first the public may yield a ready acquiescence to all that they say, it will require continual and repeated attacks before it will be persuaded to reduce the theory to practice. Life Assurance furnishes a striking illustration of this idea. None would think of controverting the science of assurance, and few would argue against the desirability of its adoption, but what numbers are there who, though approving of it in the abstract, neglect practically to avail themselves of its advantages! Theirs is not an active, but a passive force; it is not hostility that requires to be removed, or conviction that requires to be produced, but simply a vis inertiæ, and mere immobility of nature, which it is necessary to overcome. Hence the necessity of keeping the advantages of life assurance continually before the public.

In briefly discussing the benefits of life assurance, all the clap trap in which many men's interests on assurance, written for the benefit of particular offices, have indulged, must be totally disregarded. The extravagant ideas that some of these have endeavoured to promulgate, by which they would try to make the public believe that life assurance is a panacea for all the ills from which humanity suffers—that a man need only effect a policy, and he has at once secured his exemption from poverty during life, and will be able to leave a fortune to his survivors at death—must be entirely dismissed. With arguments so fallacious there can be no sympathy.

For life assurance to exercise a beneficial influence, three things must necessarily be first assumed, viz—that the assurance be in a safe office, with an honest intention, and in proportion to a man's income. A safe office is essential, for if there be any uncertainty as to its capability now, or at any time future time, of meeting its liabilities, great uneasiness and perplexity on the part of the assured are the inevitable consequence. It does not follow, however, that in order to be safe, it must be some rich old corporation, only that its position, character, and management shall be of such a nature that not a single doubt can be entertained of its thorough soundness. There must be an honest intention, because speculative or fraudulent assurances are the abuses of the system, and consequently cannot be included in the category of its benefits. The amounts assured should, as a general rule, be in proportions to a man's means; for if it be less, the provision will probably be inadequate; and if it be more, much anxiety may be occasioned by the necessity of regularity in paying the premiums, and the future benefits may be obtained at a present sacrifice so great as perhaps to be unendurable.

LOCAL EVENTS.

DEPUTIES.—This Chamber of Congress meets to-day, to discuss the Customs Conversion bill, proposed by the Minister of Finance.

BELGRANO STATUE.—Steps have been taken to advance the subscription for the erection of this monument in the Plaza Parque, especially after the inauguration of that of San Martin.

Belgrano, as inferior General to San Martin, was a better statesman and a greater patriot. His private virtue and high moral character did more in favor of the revolution than the brilliant feats of the latter.

His biography so admirably written by General Mitre proves his title to public gratitude superior to that of any other statesman in the country.

NATIONAL CUSTOM-HOUSE.—D. Pedro Pondal has been appointed Inspector of these establishments in the Provinces of Entre Rios, and General D. Pedro Ferré in a similar capacity for those of Corrientes.

ENTRE RIOS DEBT.—General Urquiza has presented himself to the Government claiming the amounts due to that province by the Nation.

We hear the claim has been allowed and will be paid in monthly instalments.

ENGLISH BANK.—The Minister of Finance of the Oriental Republic said a few days ago in the Chambers, that he knew that an English Bank was to be established shortly in Buenos Aires.

FRENCH MINISTER.—Mr. Lefèvre de Becour, French Minister, has left for Paraguay on board the Fulminante.

It is stated that the object of his voyage is to present several claims of French residents.

PARANA.—There is little news from this quiet place. No watchmen, no street-lighting, no chief of Police and last, but not least, no pay for the public officers.

LIMERA.—The Spanish Government have sent instructions to their Consul in Rosario, to ask from this government the remains of the last viceroy, General Liniers, and his unfortunate companions, who were shot in the province of Cordova, in 1810.

Dr Costa, the Minister of Government, has replied that he will give up the remains, and referring to the services of Liniers to this country, says that on the embarkation of the remains, a salute will be fired by the Argentine men of-war.

We leave to other people the task of questioning the judiciousness of delivering up those remains, which form a national glory.

Neither Spain nor her generals have any part in the glory of the defence of this city in 1806, or recapture of Montevideo in 1808. Liniers, the hero of that day, was a Frenchman by birth, and his career, his successes and his glory belong to the land of his adoption, Buenos Ayres.

DEATH OF PRINCE ALBERT.—The Governor has received an official communication to this effect, from the Prince of Wales and Lord Russell, and answered it in very courteous terms.

AUCTIONS.—To-day—Sola, San Martin 43, jewellery &c.—Arriola, D fensa 74, dry goods—Balbin and Howes, Victoria 302, dry goods.—Bates, Morris 158, comestibles and spirits—Silva, Piedras 21, do do—Bonorino, Defensa 177, do do.—Lowry, corner of Lima and Rivadavia, jewellery, &c.—Marquez, Defensa 147, haberdashery.—Hidalgo, Victoria 331, dry goods.

THE MERSEY.—Considerable anxiety exists about this steamer, but it must be remembered that it was in this month last year that the Saint-ouge was almost given up for lost.

GREAT BARGAIN.—A great bargain is rather a scarce thing to find now-a-days. The mill property in the Banda Oriental, for sale by Messrs Weston & Co. House and land agents, Recoba Viejo No. 38, is about the greatest bargain going.

GREAT FROST.—We hear that the Parrana river was frozen over on Monday night.

THE LIBERTAD.—This steamer sails to-day for Montevideo.

HE YIELDS.—The Kerosene oil establishment yields to the popular cry for reduction of prices.

Scarcely a house in town that has not one of these lamps now, Mr. Covert note: very properly in meeting the wishes of the public and reducing the prices of Kerosene oil.

FRENCH BEVUE.—It is said that this French mimic company is to return to Buenos Aires, and take possession of the "Colon".

OUT OF IT.—One of our colleagues of the daily press is going to Europe on a diplomatic mission, in a certain fashionable capital.

OF THE LA PLATA

At No. 69 CALLE FLORIDA.

The undersigned would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Buenos Ayres and the Argentine Republic, that having completed his arrangements, he has opened the above named establishment to the public on the 23rd May, with an immense supply of the celebrated Kerosene, and a stock of kerosene lamps, imported from Europe and North America expressly for the market, which for

in every respect, is unsurpassed in the Globe. All of which will be offered for sale at the most reasonable prices. He would moreover invite the attention of the public to the many advantages of the adjustable illuminator over all other light giving agents. Kerosene Oil being a product derived from bituminous coal, contains all the illuminating properties of coal gas, and produces a clear, white light, surpassing Gas light itself in its superiority of such remarkable softness and purity as to render it infinitely the best light in the world for the eyes, while it costs but one half as much as gas and upwards more economical than the most delicate light in use. Kerosene Oil is very cleanly, burns and perfectly safe and the lamps are so simple that they can not be got out of order. The unequaled superiority of Kerosene Oil over all other artificial illuminators, having been fully established throughout Europe and North America [where it has met an adoption unprecedented in the history of improvements], it is now confidently offered to the public as the most perfect and in every respect most desirable illuminant yet introduced. All are invited to call and see the light and judge for themselves, the evening being the best time, for see the establishment.

THE STANDARD.

NIL FALSI ADDAM.—NIL VERUM NOM "QUADAM DICERE". (Cicero.)

WEDNESDAY 16th JULY 1862.

Session of Congress.

The Chamber of Senators met yesterday, 20 members being present. The Cordoba railway bill was continued from Art 10, in which it was provided that at least 25 miles should be constructed within 2 years from beginning operations. The clauses up to 18 were sanctioned without modification.

11. The term of guarantee shall be for 40 years, but the lands ceded shall be in perpetuity.

12. Government shall have power to interfere in the regulation of the tariff, during the term of guarantee.

13. The Company shall have a right to construct branch-lines, but Government shall not be held for a guarantee in such enterprises.

14. The Company shall be bound to prolong the line to any other convenient place, on condition that Government guarantees 7 p$ on the outlay, and Government shall have the right of purchasing the line, on paying, over and ab ve the outlay a sum of 20. p$ for compensation.

15. The Company may be anonymous, being submitted to the Government and having a legal residence in the Republic.

16. The Government shall have power of intervention in the fulfilment of these stipulations.

17. Whatever question may arise shall be settled by arbitration.

18. The Government, in granting the concession, shall demand a pecuniary pledge for the execution of this work.

The secretary then read the following bill:—

Art 1—The extent of 40 yards on each side of the railroad shall be appropriated for a public highway from Rosario to Cordoba, besides the necessary track (four yards) for the line.

Dr Rawson proposed to put one hundred yards on one side as more convenient.

Dr Elizalde showed it was better to place a road on each side, in order to save the trouble of crossing the line, for the passage of cattle, which involves great danger.

Art. 2—The National Executive shall ask a cession of half a league on each side of the above highway, for public purposes, to be hereafter determined by the provincial legislatures of Santa Fe and Cordova shall be invited to carry out this cession in the whole line, excepting one league from the points of terminus.

Dr Alsina objected that the individual proprietors would not resign their lands for pure patriotism, especially when their lands would acquire increased value from the vicinity of the railroad. He hundred yards as an amendment the grant of a certain given extent of land, without leaving to the Executive the arbitrary expropriation of whatever territory they may think fit. The present grant should stand as a general rule for all future lines, but on a limited plan.

Dr. Elizalde—insisted that the present case was alone in discussion. The Congress assumed, as indisputable right, the confiscation of 104 yards in the whole line but only begged the patriotic grant of 1|2 a league. In the first case we ask permission of no one; in the second we call on the Provincial Legislatures to give up their public lands near the line, and interest themselves with the estancieros to renounce their claims.

Dr. Sarsfield.—vindicated the further authority of Congress to take any quantity of land requisite for National highways. He held that the grant of 104 yards might be sufficient for the railway purpose, but the provincial traffic required moreover public roads at least 50 or 80 yards wide. From Rosario to the Carcarañas there is some beaten track or postroad, but, he could assure them from personal observation, that nothing of the kind existed from that stream to the town of Villa Nueva. In this province the Government had marked out 70 or 80 yards for the post-road to Villa Luxan; and hence it followed a straight and commodious line. The same was necessary in Sta. Fé and Cordoba, for the facilities of travelling, not to vex the people to follow such or such a route, but to provide transit for caravans or troops of cattle.

The bill was passed by general affirmation on both readings, and therefore will next come before the Chamber of Deputies.

Gen. Rojo was sworn in as Senator for Salta.

The San Martin statue.

GENERAL MITRE'S SPEECH.

Gentlemen.

We are about to uncover the noble effigy of General S. Martin in the heroic attitude where n Art has immortalized him, when scaling the loftiest chain of mountains on the Globe, and mounted on his war-horse, he pointed out to his legionaries the path of glory, and looked down with the prophetic eye of genius, from those beetling heights, on the pampas, seas and valleys of South America, the scene of his past exploits and future renown.

This effigy will, at length, be presented to the gratitude and admiration of that posterity to whose decision he confidently appealed in the most resentful speech of his life, when bidding farewell to the American shores.

That sentence has been passed by four generations. Three republics have acclaimed him the father and founder of their liberties and independance. The political geography has defined eight nations within the orbit traced out by his victorious sword. The whole world has confessed him the first military genius of the continent. America ranks him with Bolivar, the Liberator of half the earth, with whom he shared the glory of becoming the armed apostle of American freedom, whose banners floated in triumph from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Valdivia to the Equator. History has emblazoned his immortal triumphs of San Lorenzo, Chacabuco and Maypú, his intrepid passage of the Andes, and his memorable expedition to Peru.

Posterity recognises in him the skilful commander and able statesman who, free from grovelling ambition, exerted his power for the one grand object to which he consecrated his sword, his heart, his existence. Here we have a picture of the hero who, by his own merit, raised himself to the pinnacle of honor, and subsequently resigned his pre-eminence with voluntary humility, when his great mission was accomplished. Such conduct is without precedent in South A rica, and only finds an equal in Washington.

When he left Peru, taking with him the standard of its liberation, calumny and insult followed him, although some noble voices were raised in his defence. Returning, solitary, by that same route by which he had recently pursued the head of his victorious legions, he found only a passing hospitality in Chile, the nation which he had contributed, And in his native country, this hero of three republics was divested of the simple right of citizenship, because his paternal roof was levelled with the dust.

San Martin condemned himself to exile, with a magnanimity unparalleled in history: after five years he returned once more to breathe his native air, but was met with a charge of cowardice. Without setting foot on these shores, he turned back to spend his declining age far from us, and await the decision of an impartial posterity. On his death-bed he did not say, "Ungrateful country, you shall not possess my bones!" but wrote in his last will, "I wish my heart to repose in Buenos Ayres."

After a long period of ingratitude, the glory of San Martin rises like a planet in the American firmament. Peru has been the first to decree a statue to his memory. Chile generously ranked him as general of her armies, with a suitable pension. And now the Municipality of Buenos Ayres raises an equestrian statue in bronze, the horse being composed of his cannon trophies, to perpetuate his name and victories, while the remembrance of his exploits will fill every patriot breast.

Nor can his services be compensated by a fragile fabric of stone and metal, which time will overthrow; the grateful memory of a nation is a better reward, for it never fades away. It is a happy augury for the Argentine Republic, that this symbol of her most illustrious son is inaugurated at a moment when our national destinies are finally consolidated.

If this bronze could now be vivified, San Martin would assuredly rejoice to see around him all the members of the Argentine family, assembled in peace and liberty, and realizing after half-a-century of discord, the great object of his labors.

In the mean time let us not forget General Belgrano who shares with him the honor of our history and affection of our hearts: for these are the two great men of thought and deed whom our revolution produced.

Let us now salute, in the statue about to be uncovered, the noble image of the Father of three Republics the victor of San Lorenzo, Chacabuco and Maipú, the first Captain of the New World, the illustrious Argentine warrior, General Jose San Martin.

The Peruvian Minister said—The signal of alarm, which has lately s read from one end to the other of this contin nt, seems to have awakened San Martin from his eternal rest: he lood forth from legions to new encount rs and further glory.

There he stands, as if inspired by the genius of war to rush forward, no longer in the cause of emancipation, but in defence of the nations he has founded, and of their immortal liberties.

In contemplating this monument, which a people's gratitude has consecrated to the hero of our age, and the guard of honour composed of the litt band of heroes, who, led on by his voice, boldly faced death, and bedewed with blood the laurels which they won, I yield to the feelings of admiration inspired by these historic associations, and bow down before these relics of Independence beneath the shadow of the statue.

Parent and founder of three republics! Conqueror of Maipú and Calmo! the representative of Perú salutes thee.

Spirit of the first Captain General of my country! Inflame once more with thy sacred genius the breast of South America, that she may wrouse her enthusiasm and become strong, united and invincible.

Editor's Table

The present steam communication between this city and Montevideo is so arranged by the agents, that they bid fair to beat the French and British consuls out in their anxiety to serve the public. On Monday, the Menay left for Montevideo, contrary to the expressed wish of every foreign merchant in town: there was not even a pretext for her leaving. Mr. Stephen D. Risso deserves to be well supported, he is so obliging. We have now no extra mail for the Saintonge. Had there been no vessel but the Saintonge going down to Montevideo, we could understand Mr Risso's anxiety to despatch the Menay, but not only had we the Saintonge, but also the Villa del Salto, a steamer so infinitely better than the Menay, both in accommodations and speed, that any one who has ever sailed in the Menay can appreciate the superiority of the other vessels.

Messrs Bernal and Carrega have the Libertad lying in port, painting her up. Surely they might have as easily despatched her yesterday evening as to-day! And supposing for a moment that she was not altogether finished, so much the better for them; the public would then know whom to trust to on an emergency.

Great complaints exist against the Gas Co., for shutting off the gas before cock-crow, which causes great inconvenience. We are at a loss to discover a motive for this step on the part of the Co.; it diminishes their receipts also, and we doubt if the Co. is so flush as to disregard this item.

The Comisario in the Police is doing a thriving business; if there was a run on the old bank there couldn't be a greater crowd than yesterday at the Policia. Ignorant passers-by wondered at the stir and rumors were rife that the Captain in the Port were holding an interview, with his highness the Chief.

On a little enquiry, however, it turned out that it was the day when half the town were brought up for judgment, for keeping protruding sign boards. The fifty-dollar bills came flowing into the Policia like unto an artesian paper dollar spring; however, the worthy judge at last met with a check from the shape of a well known city Dentist, who, standing upon his rights, refused to be fined, or take down his sign, until the Chief of Police set the example, and took down his vigilant eyes from public view. The judge ranted and paced up and down, cut to the core by the severity of the reply; then sent the worthy dentist about his business. The poor Italians, however, who wanted the pluck of our friend in calle Piedad, were mulcted without pity. The Chief and his Commissary had better be on the look out next time they have a tooth ache, lest they purchance call on our esteemed friend, who, we doubt not, will settle matters in a most friendly manner, in the way of tooth extraction.

We have received the map of the new town of "Mitre", and can only say that if it is as good as it looks on paper, it will be one of our most charming suburbs about town.

Sending the Fool Farther.

It is a generally understood thing that private property, whether belonging to native or foreigner, in this country is sacred, and cannot be invaded, no matter under what pretence, except through the medium of our civil courts, after a patient hearing of all parties interested.

The municipality of this city has been more than once brought before the public, in the columns of the "Standard," not to say in the most favourable light;—but our previous observations were more of a general than specific character.

A communication, however, has now been sent to us, which comes from a responsible party, a property-holder in this city—a foreigner who, having made money in the country of his adoption, deems the best return he can make that country is to invest his little capital here, for the advancement of the country, rather than employ it in foreign bottoms or railway shares.

The Municipality or Chief of Police in former days, one Sr. Treiles, without any notice whatever to the owner, set too and cut away about 350 square yards of the cumbinan's property, in calle Buenos Ordenes, on the top of the Hill, close to Sr. Cambaceres quinta, destroying a handsome hedge of 12 years growth, and actually widening the street more than the law allowed, the clay thus cut away, was carted down the hill, and distributed so as to create a greater slope. The intention was praiseworthy enough but the end can never justify the means, and the wilful trespass committed upon Mr. L.'s property, has brought its own retribution. The street is at present impassable, and last week, during the wet weather, the scene of mud and pantano at the bottom of the hill, baffles all description.

It will be said why did not the owner apply to the proper authorities, for redress? why did he not avail himself of the law of the land? why did he not submit his rights as the owner of the injured property? Those who put such questions know as much about Buenos Ayres lawsuits as the Chief of Policia does about the Great Mogul.

In the first place, the Municipality enjoy the privilege of minors in all lawsuits, and cannot be sued except at a great disadvantage; in the next place, supposing that the Municipality were liable as a body for their acts, in the same manner as individuals, the "bona probanda" as to the title of the property in question, lies on the plaintiffs, which is contrary to every principle of law or justice: yet since the days of Ferdinand and Isabel it has been universally the practise in all Spanish countries.

The consequence is, that the party aggrieved, rather than commence a lawsuit against a body hedged round with such immunities, seeks by every possible means to obtain restitution, and failing to get it by fair means loses it altogether.

Mr. L. has applied from post to post, until patience has fairly ceased to be a virtue.

He first applied to the Chief of Police, who peremptorily referred him to the Municipality. This body referred to hear his complaint and sent him to the Topographical department. After waiting months and months, he was desired to apply to the Commission of Barracas. The Commission, in their turn sent him to the Minister of Hacienda; here he met with business men and was at once despatched to the fiscal, this gentleman hit the nail on the head by giving him the following reply: "Ocurrase a quien corresponde".

The exact domicile of this Mr

"ocurrence a quien corresponde" Mr. Thomas Bee for months and months trying to find out. Some say it means Dr. Foster, whilst others think it means the head lighter-man in town. However it is, Mr. L. may go whistle for his claim, as the children $20,000 but would be glad to get 15,000.

The Prince of Wales and Gen. Mitre

The official publication of yesterday gives a letter from H.R.H. Albert Edward, to President Mitre, with the reply of the latter. Although mere formalities, referring to an event long past, we produce them for the rarity they possess, and the relationship so formed between our Royal family and the Argentine authorities.

To the President of the Argentine Confederation.

My good friend—

The Queen, my beloved mother, has suffered a grievous loss in the death of my dear and venerated father Prince Albert, which took place at Windsor Castle on the 14 December last. You can well imagine the grief of Her Majesty at this unexpected blow which befal the Royal family and all the nation. Under such sad circumstances I am directed to write, on the part of my afflicted mother, informing you of the melancholy occurrence. The Queen trusts that you will kindly receive this announcement as coming from herself, and that she may count upon your friendly sympathy in the last trial, which Divine Providence has pleased to inflict upon her. I recommend you to God's holy keeping.

Your sincere friend.

Albert Edward.

Osborne House an. 15 61

REPLY OF GENERAL MITRE.

To H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, greeting!

My good friend.

I have received your letter informing me of the irreparable loss which your august mother, the Queen, has sustained in the death of the Prince Consort. Cherishing, in common with all my countrymen, the most cordial sympathy for her Majesty's welfare and that of her family as well as of the great nation which she rules, my heart is most deeply affected at this lamentable catastrophe which in rendering doubly poignant by the remembrance of the many high qualities which adorned the deceased Prince.

I beg most earnestly that you will deign to participate to her Majesty my compassion for the just affliction which oppresses her; assuring her, at the same time, that I will fervently pray the Almighty to fortify her soul and yours with the necessary resignation to bear up sgn nst so severe a trial.

May the Supreme Ruler ever guard and preserve you.

Your good friend.

The Advantages of Life Assurance

[Communicated.]

Men do not need information so much as impression. They may be acquainted with facts of significant import, or great practical value; but they half shut their eyes and see them dimly, and half close their ears and hear them feebly. They may know, but they do not de—heir information does not result in positive action. Thus, if a principle is even to make extensive progress, it must be by intense exertion on the part of its ex-plo'ers, whose voices must never sick, whose energies must never fail, whose determination must never falter, if they are to make a deep and lasting impression upon society in reference to the particular cause which they may advocate. For, though for the first the public may yield a ready acquiescence to all that they say, it will require continual and repeated attacks before it will be persuaded to reduce the theory to practice. Life Assurance furnishes a striking illustration of this idea. None would think of controverting the science of assurance, and few would argue against the desirability of its adoption, but what numbers are there who, though approving of it in the abstract, neglect practically to avail themselves of its advantages! Theirs is not an active, but a passive force; it is not hostility that requires to be removed, or conviction that requires to be produced, but simply a vis inertiæ, and mere immobility of nature, which it is necessary to overcome. Hence the necessity of keeping the advantages of life assurance continually before the public.

In briefly discussing the benefits of life assurance, all the clap trap in which many modern writers on assurance, writing for the benefit of particular offices, have indulged, must be totally disregarded. The extravagant ideas that some of these have endeavoured to promulgate, by which they would try to make the public believe that life assurance is a panacea for all the ills from which humanity suffers—that a man need only effect a policy, and he has at once secured his exemption from poverty during life, and will be able to leave a fortune to his survivors at death—must be entirely dismissed. With arguments so fallacious there can be no sympathy.

For life assurance to exercise a beneficial influence, three things must necessarily be first assumed, viz—that the assurance be in a safe office, with an honest intention, and in proportion to a man's income. A safe office is essential, for if there be any uncertainty as to its capability now, or at any time future time, of meeting its liabilities, great uneasiness and perplexity on the part of the assured are the inevitable consequence. It does not follow, however, that in order to be safe, it must be some rich old corporation, only that its position, character, and management shall be of such a nature that not a single doubt can be entertained of its thorough soundness. There must be an honest intention, because speculative or fraudulent assurances are the abuses of the system, and consequently cannot be included in the category of its benefits. The amounts assured should, as a general rule, be in proportions to a man's means; for if it be less, the provision will probably be inadequate; and if it be more, much anxiety may be occasioned by the necessity of regularity in paying the premiums, and its future benefits may be obtained at a present sacrifice so great as perhaps to be unendurable.

LOCAL EVENTS.

DEPUTIES.—This Chamber of Congress meets to-day, to discuss the Customs Conversion bill, proposed by the Minister of Finance.

BELGRANO STATUE.—Steps have been taken to advance the subscription for the erection of this monument in the Plaza Parque, especially after the inauguration of that of San Martin.

Belgrano, an inferior General to San Martin, was a better statesman and a greater patriot. His private virtue and high moral character did more in favor of the revolution than the brilliant feats of the latter.

His biography so admirably written by General Mitre proves his title to public gratitude superior to that of any other statesman in the country.

NATIONAL CUSTOM-HOUSE.—D. Pedro Pondal has been appointed Inspector of these establishments in the Provinces of Entre Rios, and General D. Pedro Ferré in a similar capacity for those of Corrientes.

ENTRE RIOS DEBT.—General Urquiza has presented himself to the Government claiming the amounts due to that province by the Nation.

We hear the claim has been allowed and will be paid in monthly instalments.

ENGLISH BANK.—The Minister of Finance of the Oriental Republic said a few days ago in the Chambers, that he knew that an English Bank was to be established shortly in Buenos Aires.

FRENCH MINISTER.—Mr. Lefèvre de Becour, French Minister, has left for Paraguay on board the Fulminante.

It is stated that the object of his voyage is to present several claims of French residents.

PARANA.—There is little news from this quiet place. No watchmen, no street-lighting, no chief of Police and last, but not least, no pay for the public officers.

LINIERS.—The Spanish Government have sent instructions to their Consul in Rosario, to ask from this government the remains of the last viceroy, General Liniers, and his unfortunate companions, who were shot in the province of Cordova, in 1810.

Dr Costa, the Minister of Government, has replied that he will give up the remains, and referring to the services of Liniers to this country, says that on the embarkation of the remains, a salute will be fired by the Argentine men of-war.

We leave to other people the task of questioning the judiciousness of delivering up those remains, which form a national glory.

Neither Spain nor her generals have any part in the glory of the defence of this city in 1806, or recapture of Montevideo in 1808. Liniers, the hero of that day, was a Frenchman by birth, and his career, his successes and his glory belong to the land of his adoption, Buenos Ayres.

DEATH OF PRINCE ALBERT.—The Governor has received an official communication to this effect, from the Prince of Wales and Lord Russell, and answered it in very courteous terms.

AUCTIONS.—To-day—Sola, San Martin 43, jewellery &c.—Arriola, D fensa 74, dry goods—Balbin and Flowes, Victoria 302, dry goods.—Bevan, Florida 158, comestibles and spirits—Silva, Piedras 31, do do—Bonorino, Defensa 177, do do.—Lofty, corner of Lima and Rivadavia, jewellery, &c.—Marquez, Defensa 147, haberdashery.—Hidalgo, Victoria 331, dry goods.

THE MERSEY.—Considerable anxiety exists about this steamer, but it must be remembered that it was in this month last year that the Saint-onge was almost given up for lost.

GREAT BARGAIN.—A great bargain is rather a scarce thing to find now-a-days. The mill property in the Banda Oriental, for sale by Messrs Weston & Co. House and land agents, Recoba Vieja No. 38, is about the greatest bargain going.

GREAT FROST.—We hear that the Parrana river was frozen over on Monday night.

THE LIBERTAD.—This steamer sails to-day for Montevideo.

HIS YIELDS.—The Kerosene oil establishment yields to the popular cry for reduction of prices.
